global solutions – advisory services

how can we help you?

Our Advisory teams help navigate through the challenges surrounding governance, risk and compliance. Our team is comprised of highly trained professionals with extensive business and industry expertise, technical acumen, and the ability to identify and apply best practices. We combine process and system benchmarking experience with organizational knowledge.

We have Advisory Specialists throughout the world who can deliver any of the following services that help your enterprise to mitigate your economic, regulatory and compliance risks:

Internal Audit

Modern internal auditing is designed to help an organization accomplish its objectives and to bring a systematic and disciplined approach to evaluating and improving the effectiveness of risk management, control, and governance processes. Our internal audit professionals have the unique ability to identify potentials of improvements and add value. We can provide internal audit resources on either a co-sourced or out-sourced basis.

Service Organization Control Reporting

Service organization control (SOC) reports are designed to help organizations that operate information systems and provide information system services to other entities. Our international team of experts can deliver an independent examination report depending on the specific needs of the service organization. Reports can be pursuant to IAASB auditing standards.

Cybersecurity Reviews and Assessments

Information security threats are extremely diverse and constantly changing. Our team of advisors can formulate strategies to effectively remediate risks and thoroughly investigate and combat information security incidents.

Third-Party Vendor Risk Management

Our professionals can assess your overall program in place to manage third-party risk across your organization. We can address process ownership, control and oversight responsibilities, in addition to performing vendor site reviews.

Dynamic Risk Assessments

Global companies need to constantly recalibrate their internal audit plans based on what is happening within their organizations, their industries and geographically in order to take appropriate steps to realign their risk profile. Our global professionals can assist internal audit departments in addressing and reacting to emerging risks on a timely basis.

Transaction, Acquisition & Merger

A merger or acquisition can add considerable value to a business, but making sure that each stage of the transaction process—from valuation to negotiation and completion—is successful demands considerable experience and knowledge. Our services are designed to help our clients reach their strategic goals by identifying and then implementing opportunities to merge with or acquire other businesses.

how can we help you?

Gap Analysis

Great business ideas often encounter roadblocks on the way to realization. Knowing where you want to go is only part of the challenge. You need a deliberate and detailed plan to bridge the difference between where you are and where you want to be. A gap analysis and assessment can help eliminate these roadblocks by comparing actual performance to potential performance. We have provided gap analysis services for clients in almost every industry and can draw on our experience to help you achieve your goals.

Due Diligence

In an acquisition process, the potential for future growth is just as important as understanding the target's historical data. To secure a favorable transaction price, mitigate risk, and position yourself for a larger return on investment, you should ask yourself these questions:

What's the seller's financial forecast?

Are its operations solid?

How strong is the market?

What are key items to address in the first 100-day plan post-close?

PKF F.R.A.N.T.S.'s due diligence experts can help you with pre- or post-deal due diligence. Whether you need expert analysis from the buy-side or sell-side, our team will provide thorough analysis and recommendations to aid in your business decisions.

Family Business Advisory

Like any business, a family enterprise must be built on a foundation of mutual agreement on certain fundamental questions:

What is our vision—and our mission—for this business?

What strategy should we follow to reach our goals?

What structures and people do we need to succeed?

How do we handle shares, inheritance, in-laws?

We know that good family and business governance go hand in hand with sustained benefits. PKF's Family Business Services professionals, arrayed across our global network of firms, are well placed to help you capture those benefits, whilst strengthening your organisation.

why do you need us?

Enterprises are facing increased challenges for business leadership to succeed in the face of market dynamics, competition and increasing regulatory burdens. Today, risk management is a leadership instrument which is a global necessity in governing an enterprise. All over the world, companies are increasingly required to report not only financial numbers but also on how they monitor changes in market conditions and related risks and opportunities, and how they are dealing with them (including the provision of indicators on their stability) in order to obtain market credibility.

Application of risk management techniques identifies risks, and opportunities helping to align and focus limited company resources on core objectives.

Benefits

Risk advisory provides value-add internationally and across industries in the areas of strategy, operations, financial monitoring and compliance.

At PKF, we have seen that there is a competitive advantage for companies who have risk management implemented when compared with less prepared competitors as the early identification of issues and application of necessary changes enable them to step into new market activities with well-balanced decisions supported by robust processes.

Challenges

Implementation of risk management systems however face various challenges and pitfalls:

- 1. Insufficient calibration of risk management processes resulting in a high volume of work for little benefit

Initial systems implementation requires extensive calibration to correctly respond to the issues at hand. The implementation of these systems comes with a steep learning curve that can cause self-implementation to be a lengthy and costly exercise.
- 2. Focus on risk rather than on objectives

A common pitfall is for companies to implement systems performing 360° risk surveys that have no usable output, rather than focusing the systems on their objectives and helping determine the risk of potential deviations. This leads to an extensive administration instead of the identification of and focus on risks and opportunities that really matter.
- 3. Overly complex systems

Improper risk management implementation often leads to overly complex systems being implemented which result in underutilised systems that interfere with business processes rather than being a part of the solution. Correct integration of a risk management system creates linkages with business plans, financial reporting and/or internal control (including internal audit) and provides tailored procedures and reports, and, a reduction of administered data fields.
- 4. Administering the known risks rather than being forward-looking Companies are operating, or planning to operate, in an environment of largely uncharted territory where there are new risks arising that challenge their ability to successfully execute their business strategy. The risk radar needs to be responsive and adjusted to focus on changes in the external environment and their impact on the company's objectives.
