

WEBINAR ON Impact of COVID - 19 on Audit

The COVID-19 pandemic and the related market conditions have created many new challenges for entities and their auditors. The consequences of COVID-19 present a unique set of challenges for auditors as auditors may not have previously identified the COVID-19 related risks in their planning and audit strategies. The lockdown measures and uncertain economic conditions now necessitate heightened professional skepticism, reconsideration of audit planning and execution strategies, more extensive audit work and more consideration and discussions of scope limitations.

To address the challenges faced or to be faced by auditors due to the spread of COVID-19, the Institute's Technical Services team has issued a comprehensive guidance material on 'Impact of Covid-19 on Audit - A Guidance for Auditors'.

As a follow up, the Institute's Auditing Standards & Ethics Committee in collaboration with the Regional Committees is arranging this webinar. Our eminent speakers will discuss various key audit areas that an auditor may encounter while conducting the audits in prevailing and post COVID-19 environment.
